TEXAS CROPS AND WEATHER.

Fruit promises a bountiful crop in all parts of Texas. The present season is favorable beyond an average for farming operations and all signs promise a good crop year. The pro-duction of wheat and oats will be short, simply because of the small amount planted. but there will be a large increase in the Wills Point Chronicle: There is fabu-lous wealth in raising grapes and making wine. A vineyard of twenty acres will pay a handsome interest on the land valued as high as $1000 per acre. The grape is indi-genous to this locality. This, of course, inures success to any one undertaking the Wichita county and Northwest Texas are getting all the rain they need this season, and the harvests of small grain and corn are going to be wonderful.

Believille Standard: The experience of this year will certainly disabuse the minds of the farmers of the idea that if they make of the firmers of the dea that I they make hay they cannot sell it. There seems to be a regular hay famine throughout the entire country, as hay is now selling in St. Louis at $16 per ton. The usual price is not more than $7. Our people are urged to make hay, save hay, whether the sun shines or not. Circumstances are such that the de-mand will keep pace with, if not ahead of the supply.

Brown county farmers are fairly well up with their work. Corn is nearly all up to a stand. The late frost killed some Irish potatoes. No cotion planted yet.

During the season just closed Abilene has shipped about seven thousand bales of cotton. The indications are that she will ship from twelve thousand to fifteen thousand bales next season. There will be over five hundred thousand bushels of small grain raised in Taylor county, much of which will be transported to other less favored sections. Never in the history of Cooke county has the wheat crop looked so well. Last year was the first complete failure for thirty venrs. The people had to get seed from other states, and this of itself helps out. for othing so improves a grain crop as a coin plete change of seed.

The recent fine rains have greatly en contaged the farmers of Somervell county. The range of that section is becoming a great resort for these who are about out of corn. Oats, corn and garden vegetables are very promising at present. Cotton has been planted by some and others will com-mence this week. Cotton seed and corn are bout the scarcest articles in the country xcept money.
